Last Sunday early morning, Benny and I go out to play basketball game together. We take MTR to Sham Shui Po station and met with other teammate. We had to arrive there by 9:30 so we supposed to have enough travelling time as we started our journey one hour before.

However, there was a service failure of the MTR train that we were on board. The train service was suspended because we had to change to other public transportations in order to continue our journey. We got off at Mei Foo station and change to a bus heading to Sham Shui Po immediately.

We spend over fifteen minutes for the interchange. We had a little worry that we might arrive lately. Therefore, we reported our situation to one of the teammate. We further suggested them to start the game first although we did not want them to wait us for too long.

After travelling for half an hour, we finally arrived at destination. The game was in progress. Both teams were play in full swing. We sat aside to take a short break and watched for the match. Ten minute later, we were ready for substitution. We were very exciting that we could be the player of the match. We aimed to be the top winner!
